OWEN FIELD UNDER FLOODLIGHTS

NORMAN Versus OKLAHOMA CITY CENTRAL
OCTOBER 3, 1947

PRE-GAME: THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

The installation of floodlights, giving twenty foot-candle visibility on the playing field, was begun by the contracting electric companies on September 9 and completed ten days later, in time for the switch to be thrown for the first game of the season: Norman 14, Sapulpa 0.

To climax the speed of installation, exciting enough in itself, Norman's halfback, Jack Lockett, scored the first two touchdowns. No matter how many future games are played here, those touchdowns, the first ever made under lights on Owen Field, will remain a record thrill for Norman High School fans.

DEDICATION

It is nothing new for Mr. J. Don Garrison to have THE TRAIL dedicated to him. But this year there is a difference.

It was through his directive genius in co-ordinating the work of Norman business men and of school and university officials that Owen Field at the University of Oklahoma was placed under floodlights in September of 1947. The football games of Norman High School have been played there before large crowds appreciative of the green field, the Gothic buildings shadowed in the background, and the autumn night sky.

We wish to thank Mr. Garrison for this special gift to our school, and also for returning, after extensive military service, to the field of school administration and to the system in which he worked for sixteen years previously. We were glad to see him again, not only as Colonel Garrison, but also as just Mr. Garrison.

We respectfully and gratefully dedicate the 1948 TRAIL to Mr. J. Don Garrison, superintendent of Norman public schools.

FOREWORD

A trail is as old as time and as new as tomorrow. From a footpath through the wilderness to the supersonic speedway of the scientist's vision, man records his progress in the trails he makes. These are preserved for us by history, literature, and our own familiar songs. We who live in the West have been fortunate in holding contact with the romantic vigor of the past while we live in a center of specialized industrial achievement. The old ballads of the cattle trails have given way to the legends of the oil fields, and these in turn to the complex phenomena of city living and the inspiration of culture and of humanitarian building. A trail is more than a map and a story. It is the moving pageant of thinking. When we take pride in our advancement, we travel an ever-new trail. In recognition of this, we present on the background of the past another record of today, our high school yearbook, the 1948 Trail.

Leaders on Education Trail

Deciding the policies and plans of the school system, the Board of Education—consisting of Mr. D. K. Boyd, president; Mr. Neil R. Johnson, vice-president; Mr. Lynn Bullard; Mr. J. A. Staedlin; and Mr. E. F. McComb—has shown itself most efficient. With Mrs. S. B. Spradlin as secretary and clerk, Mr. W. K. Newton as auditor, and Mr. J. W. Foster as treasurer, the board has energetically carried out its duties and received unanimous commendation.

The board members are all outstanding business men and leaders in activities of the city.

As an exemplification of wit and diplomacy of Norman High, Mr. Lance Ewbank, our principal for the past four years, has accomplished perfection in the completion of school affairs.

Born in Argonia, Kansas, Mr. Ewbank, as an infant of one, moved with his family to the Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma, where he received his grade and high school education.

After his marriage in 1923, he attended Northwestern State Teachers College at Alva, and received the bachelor's degree in social science. In the following summer he studied at the University of Oklahoma and received a master's degree in education.

Mr. Ewbank served as assistant coach and history instructor at Cherokee, as coach at Sayre, as coach at Cherokee again, and as coach and principal at Chelsea. After four years in Wagoner he moved to Norman, where he became principal of our high school. As is his past, his present is also exemplary of experience and tact.

Mrs. S. B. Spradlin and Mrs. Ina Delattre, representing the feminine side of the school, have helped to bring Norman High to a peak in efficiency and progress. Mrs. Spradlin has proved herself indispensable as cashier of school funds. As school registrar, Mrs. Delattre, whose zest and amiability have made her popular with all students, acts as Mr. Ewbank's assistant.

In Norman High School there are many people who deserve recognition for the work which they do, but who seldom receive any. The people to whom I refer are the custodians and the school bus drivers.

When we come to school on cold mornings we always find a nice warm, clean building. These things are taken for granted. We really never stop to think that our custodians have worked late the evening before to get the building clean and then have arrived early in the morning so that by the time we arrive the building will be warm.

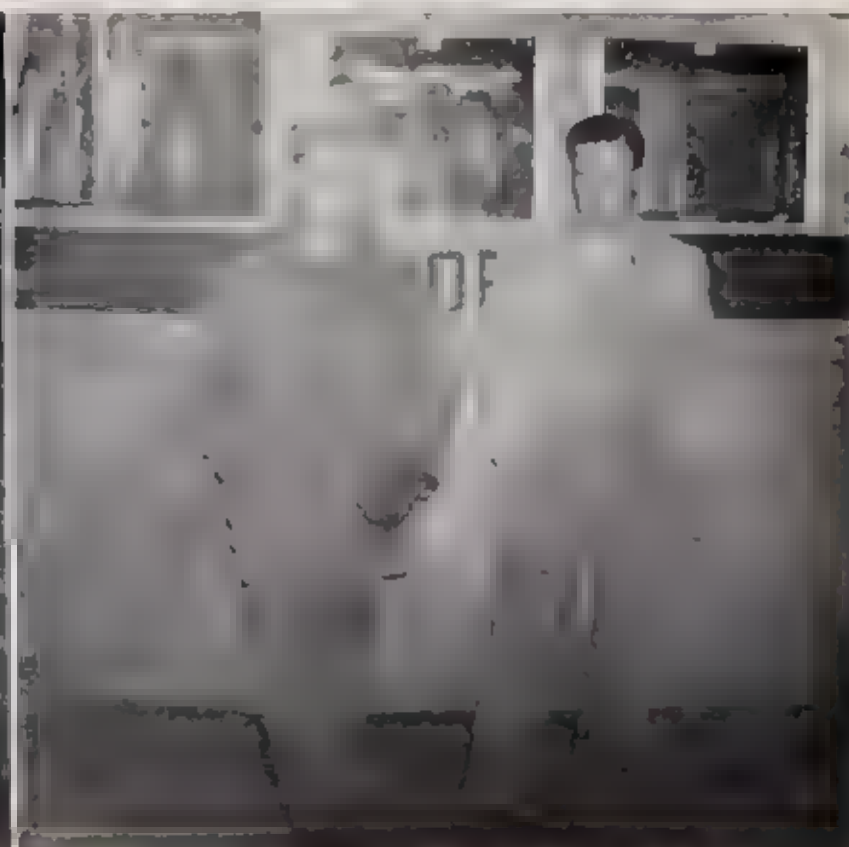

The custodians in Norman High are Mr. Louie L. Mize, Mr. Ray Evans, and Mrs. Ray Evans. The Junior High custodians are Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Cowan. Mr. Mize is the head custodian. One of his big jobs this year has been taking care of the new jeep station wagon which the school purchased this year.

The bus drivers of Norman High School are men we could not get along without. They are on the job in spite of the weather, mornings and evenings. Our bus drivers are A. E. Essary, S. D. Liner, J. Don Garrison, Jr., and Carl Seeby.

A New Trail

"Pull out, pull out, on the Long Trail the trail that is always new."

—Rudyard Kipling, The Long Trail

Senior years and commencement exercises come and go, but somehow they are never quite the same. Each class of us graduates with our own special memories of high school days and the satisfaction that this was "our" year. All of us in our own small way come to realize that things will never be quite the same.

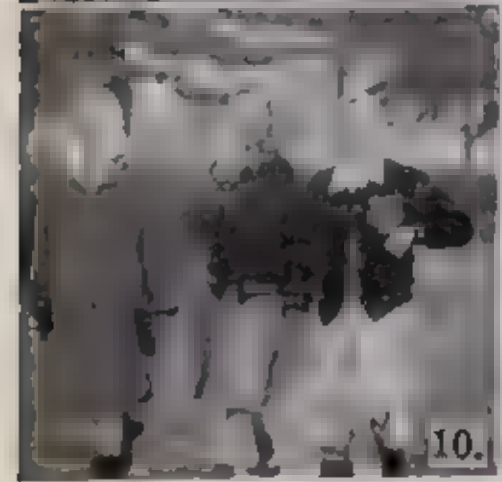

No one else will find exactly the same collection of junk in his Fibber McGee closet locker, there are no more all night jaunts for us or quite the same jokes with exactly the same people, few of us will cheer again for a team because of our personal interest, or have the fun of planning a prom one year and enjoying ourselves as guests the next. How vividly we recall Homecoming 1947 style, the impressive coronation and the thrill of marching down the aisle to the strains of Pomp and Circumstance, the football game under Owen field lights and the victory dance afterward! When will such little worries again seem so big, and how many of us will receive the thrill of gaining a coveted achievement and taking our place among the honored ones of our class? No longer in sight are hall gatherings around particular lockers when we met, discussed the "larest," teased a little, had a hearty laugh or two, and barely got to class before the bell.

True, these days are gone forever; but we realize that while we have had each moment to the fullest for itself alone we were also given the capacity to meet the new challenges of tomorrow.

Commencement night as we march down the aisle and ascend the auditorium steps to receive our diplomas, perhaps there will flash across our minds the memory of another day a few years ago when we humbly ascended other steps that led to that promising and far-distant goal. And as we reach out to receive it, once more we look up as we did then to new advancement on this ever-climbing trail.

In the opinion of many, the most talented, active, and industrious class in Norman High School is the class of '49. The junior class has compiled an enviable record of achievements ever since it first entered the campus of NHS. There has always been a prevailing desire to subdue and conquer all obstacles, no matter how apparently insurmountable. Everyone is given an adequate chance to be a vital part of the junior class. Our activities make every person share in our glory and feel he is essential to our progress and is needed for the ultimate success that our class aspires to attain.

We started the year by electing an all-male aggregation of class officers: Ted Reynolds, president; Maurice Holland, vice-president; James Argo, secretary-treasurer. We chose Mrs. Bernice Mowdy, Mrs. J. B. Williams, Mrs. Racheal Kelly, and Miss Nadine Runyan as sponsors.

This year the TRAIL queen was elected from the ranks of the juniors. Wylodean Cornelison was the second girl to win this honor from the class of '49. Although the TRAIL queen candidates this year were not sponsored by the classes, the juniors rallied to the aid of their class member. When the race was over, everyone sighed with relief mingled with pride, knowing he had played an important part in bringing about the outcome. All through the year we raised money for the junior-senior reception. Our tireless efforts were rewarded with a reception, impressive and beautiful, thoroughly satisfactory to all of us. Juniors placed entrants in every one of the school's activities. It is impossible to list all these prominent individuals in so small a space.

The junior class now stands looking back in retrospect and ahead in anticipation of blazing new trails to uncharted fields in the time that we have left in high school.

In ending our school year, the junior class is leaving behind it an enviable record in athletics, scholarship and activities. We are looking forward with a great deal of eagerness to our senior year, a year we know will be full of lasting friendships, of happiness, and of honest endeavor.

NHS Tenderfeet

We sophomores hit senior high this year with a bang! And if past records mean anything, things are likely to keep popping all the time we're here.

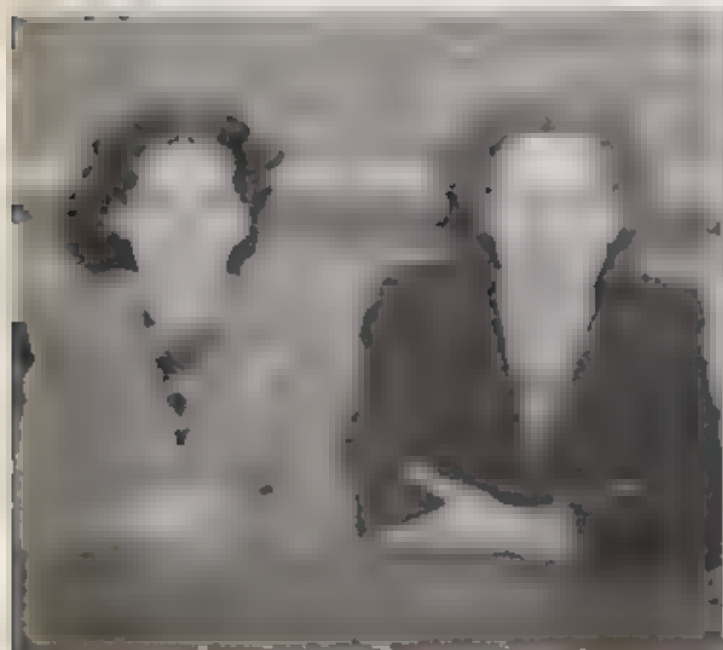

Last year we ran the seniors' candidate for FRAIL Queen a close second, only to be nosed out in the last moments of the contest. This year, in another hard-fought race, the sophomores again finished as runners-up. Our candidate, Gail Hughes, was defeated in the final count by a heart-breaking 4000 votes. Sophomore Norma Jean Black was elected Norman High Sweetheart in March.

When, in our first class meeting of the year, we elected class officers, the boys made a clear sweep of the election, much to the girls' chagrin. Karl Von Keller was elected president; Birch Rose, vice-president; Dexter Thomas, secretary-treasurer. We selected Mrs. H. C. Davis, Mrs. Inez Rolette, and Mr. Ford Michael as sophomore sponsors.

Sophomore representative in the all-school play, "Adam's Evening," was Gail Hughes, cast as Rosita Fragoni, the doctor's innocent wife who spent most of her time evading Adam's overly-sympathetic mother-in-law. Tenth graders backstage were Richard Harkins and Jeroald Andrews, who did a fine job of working out the sound effects and controlling the general confusion which normally accompanies a high school production.

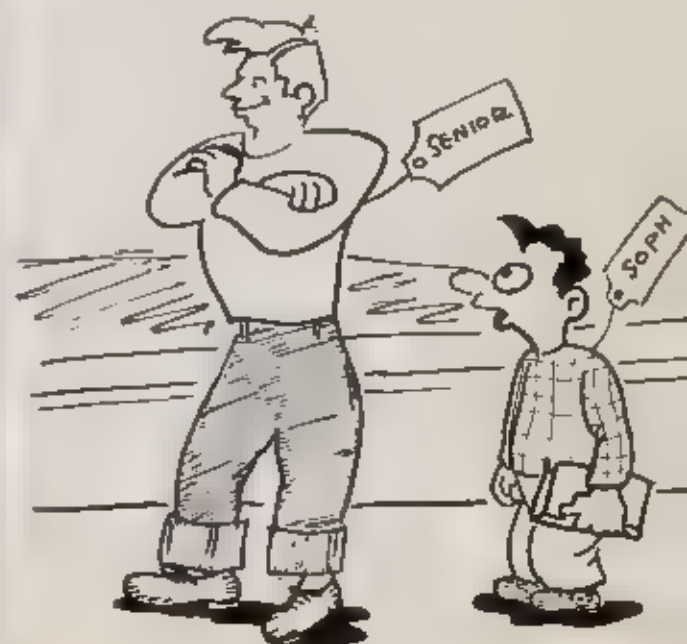

Karl Von Keller, King Price, Jr., Bob Woodrow, and Vincent Miller are the four sophomore boys who helped Norman High to runner-up spot in the Mid-State Conference this year. You will be seeing more of them on the gridiron next year.

In basketball, baseball, and track sophomores are again well represented. Although there are none on the regular basketball team, the 'B' team is almost completely made up of sophomore boys. They are Rutherford Brett, Harlan McKenzie, John Crane, Edwin Walton, Karl Von Keller, Hoyl Lockett, David Glander, Robert Slagle, Edward Freeman, and Norris Smith.

A large number of sophomore girls, too numerous to mention here, joined the Ginger-snap Pep Club to back our NHS teams with spirit and yells. Many others made their contribution by wearing the black and orange uniforms of the Norman High School Band.

In the parade preceding the Homecoming game the float from Miss Sugden's homeroom, which is primarily composed of sophomores, placed first. Two tenth grade girls, Margaret Smith and Margaret Ann Rankin, rode as mermaids on the winning float.

The sophomores set something of a record scholastically this year by putting six class members in the National Honor Society: King Price, Jr., Barbara Searle, Patricia Searle, Hoyl Lockett, Richard Harkins, and Mary Ellen Casey.

At the first of the school year, sophomore representatives chosen for the TIGER and the TRAIL staffs were: Patsy Hallock, TIGER; Hoyl Lockett and Mary Ellen Casey, TRAIL.

Two sophomores, Patsy Hallock and Mary Ellen Casey, represented the TIGER and TRAIL respectively at the Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Association meeting.

We sophomores are only at the beginning of our NHS trail. The road before us is straight and clear, rough in places, perhaps, but full of many memorable friends and good times, leading in the end to our graduation as the Class of 1950.

Boundless Frontiers

... to find one's way around the universe ...

Years ago, when our country was young, and the super-highways of today were merely narrow cattle trails, our predecessors, the colorful settlers of America, struggled to cross this continent and to bring the boundaries of our nation closer together. They had a strong desire to establish a land where their children could pursue knowledge and make themselves intelligent men, capable of governing themselves and of improving their society.

Their freedoms still exist for us today, and their dream of the opportunity to learn is greater than ever before. Those pioneers of the past blazed many trails for us to venture upon. One of the most valuable of these is the "Trail of Knowledge."

Knowledge is the trail to the success of an individual. Every day we are beginning to see the final goal, which, when reached by faithful endeavor, will bring us to the satisfaction of individual success.

Knowledge is a trail, not to a place, but to an understanding. An individual cannot accomplish success alone, but must work toward his goal with those around him who are at the same time advancing toward their destination. One of the most important phases of education is to learn to understand others.

Knowledge is the trail to peace. When men learn to work together in a small community, they are broadening themselves and making the idea of world co-operation seem nearer. Through learning comes the opportunity for all people, rich and poor, of all races and creeds, to meet on common ground. When there is a meeting of free minds, a new milestone has been passed. For surely individual success, understanding between two individuals, world peace and co-operation, are all milestones on the greatest Trail of Knowledge, the Trail of Exploration and Discovery.

There will always be pioneers to explore the undiscovered enigma of the universe. There will be those who will, through diligent study, solve the complex equations that hold in their solution the answer to the mysteries of our solar system. There will be those who will now, as did our fathers in the past, dream dreams, and conceive ideas, and eventually show us the incredible simplicity in the things which we now find intricate. There will be some who follow this phase of the Trail of Knowledge who will lag behind, as some of our ancestors stayed "close to the past." There will be others who will forge ahead, break new trails, and progress far. No matter which we do, the opportunity is ours.

A wise man once said, "New worlds are for the young to explore." As the ancient sea captains braved raging storms at sea and overcame the strong currents of the mysterious depths; as the rugged, proud pioneers of the colorful past conquered the hardships of the frontier trails, so we, who are young, can be discoverers and explorers of the yet unknown, as we travel over the vast Trail of Knowledge—a trail which is wide and stretches far—a trail which will never end.

—Harriett Rutledge

Milestones on the Education Trail

JUNIOR HIGH

It would be difficult in these few words to tell of the events of the year in our junior high school, but here are a few of the higher points. Eighth grade class officers elected by the student body were as follows: president, Jannette Thomas; vice-president, Marion Smith; secretary, Carol Jean Blackwood; treasurer, Ann Grisso. Ninth grade officers are: president, Larry Flood; vice-president, Buster Bates; secretary, Helene Harris; and treasurer, Sally Wacker.

The students also took an active part in the "A" Band and "B" Band. The ninth grade boys took part in the FFA, and the girls kept up with them in the FHA and FHO. The freshman football team had a very successful year by winning five and losing three games. The basketball team coached by Arlo "Skivey" Davis won the Cleveland County Tournament. Backing these boys was a group of girls called the "Juniorsnaps." The cheerleaders elected by the group were Ann Grisso, Bette Jean Moore, Eve Mae Teegardin, and Helene Harris. The chorus and the glee clubs also had many junior high students. The school generously contributed to the Red Cross, March of Dimes, and many other needy causes.

We here in junior high sincerely hope that we will be welcomed into senior high. We hope we have made a good record, and will try to continue to do so throughout our high school education.

HONORS

Along all trails there are honors to be won. In high school as in other walks of life we step forward to receive the recognition that is ours. On these few pages we have attempted to present pictures of people who have earned our most outstanding honors. Not all earnest efforts can be praised, and so it is with our honor section; we can picture only the cream of the crop. From a bevy of beautiful queens to last year's outstanding athlete-scholar the honor pages take their place as a coveted spot in our 1948 TRAIL.

COACHING STAFF—W. C. "Dub" Wooten, Harley "Doc" LaFavers, Arlo "Skivey" Davis, "Tex" Barnes

ONWARD TO VICTORY

This has been one of those seasons to which the Norman players can look back with pride and tell their grandchildren, "I played on Norman's 1947 team." Norman won nine games and lost but one game. The Tigers had everything to make a winning team—wonderful coaching, great team spirit, and the best backing in the world. Mr. Garrison, our sports-loving superintendent, was largely responsible for their getting Oklahoma University's Owen Field, the best high school football field in the nation.

Arlo "Skivey" Davis, Norman's grand old man of football, athletic director and assistant coach, cooked up probably the hardest schedule a Tiger eleven ever faced.

Harley "Doc" LaFavers, Norman's young head coach who lives football, handled his task with the finesse of a veteran.

"Dub" Wooten, former all Big Six end from O. U., took much of the load off Doc's shoulders by helping with the line, and won his way into the hearts of all the players.

"Tex" Barnes brought his freshman team a long way. Their experience under Tex will be invaluable to their future high school athletic activities.

Charles "Bird" Coleman was the Tigers' excellent offensive end. "Bird's" pass-snagging won him a berth on the all-district team.

When the Tigers went on defense, Charles Stowe took over for Bird and was probably one of the best defensive ends in the state.

Tackle J. N. Johnson, one of the finest linemen ever to don a Tiger uniform, won berths on every all-state team out.

Ted Reynolds, left guard, was probably the best offensive lineman on the squad.

Walter Ratliff, pivot man and line-backer, was the smallest man in the line, but his hustle and determination made up for his lack of weight.

Guard J. B. Dufran battered his way through larger opponents and made all-district.

David LeCrone kept up the family's good name by playing an outstanding game at tackle.

Philip Kidd, end, really stacked up the interference that came his way. Phil received the only serious injury of the season when he broke his foot on the last play of the last game.

Jack Lockett, left half, the Bengals' leading scorer, won a berth on the TULSA WORLD's all state team and also made all-district.

Roy Hamilton was the Tigers' quarterback. His running, passing, and kicking won him a place on the all district team.

Bill Fox, Tiger right half, vicious tackler and hard runner, had rather play football than eat.

Norman had two fine fullbacks who battled their way for a starting berth each week, Pete Barnard, the mighty mite who weighed only 145 pounds, and "Chalkie" Russell, a smooth, swivel-hipped runner.

Reserves were chin deep. Charles Haney, an able junior, replaced Walt at center. Eugene Akin, Allan Turner, John Buckingham, and Earl Thompson saw plenty of action.

At tackle, Jerry Adams, Charles Goodmiller, Vincent Miller, and Bobby Woodrow were ready to fill in for Johnny and Dave.

Three other fine ends besides Stowe will be back next year—King Price, Jr., James Argo, and J. Edward Portwood.

All-State Tackle, J. N. Johnson adjusts one of the new plastic helmets he will wear in the all-state game in August

Sam Wilson, Jerry Garrett, and Jack McDermott, seniors, saw plenty of action as backs.

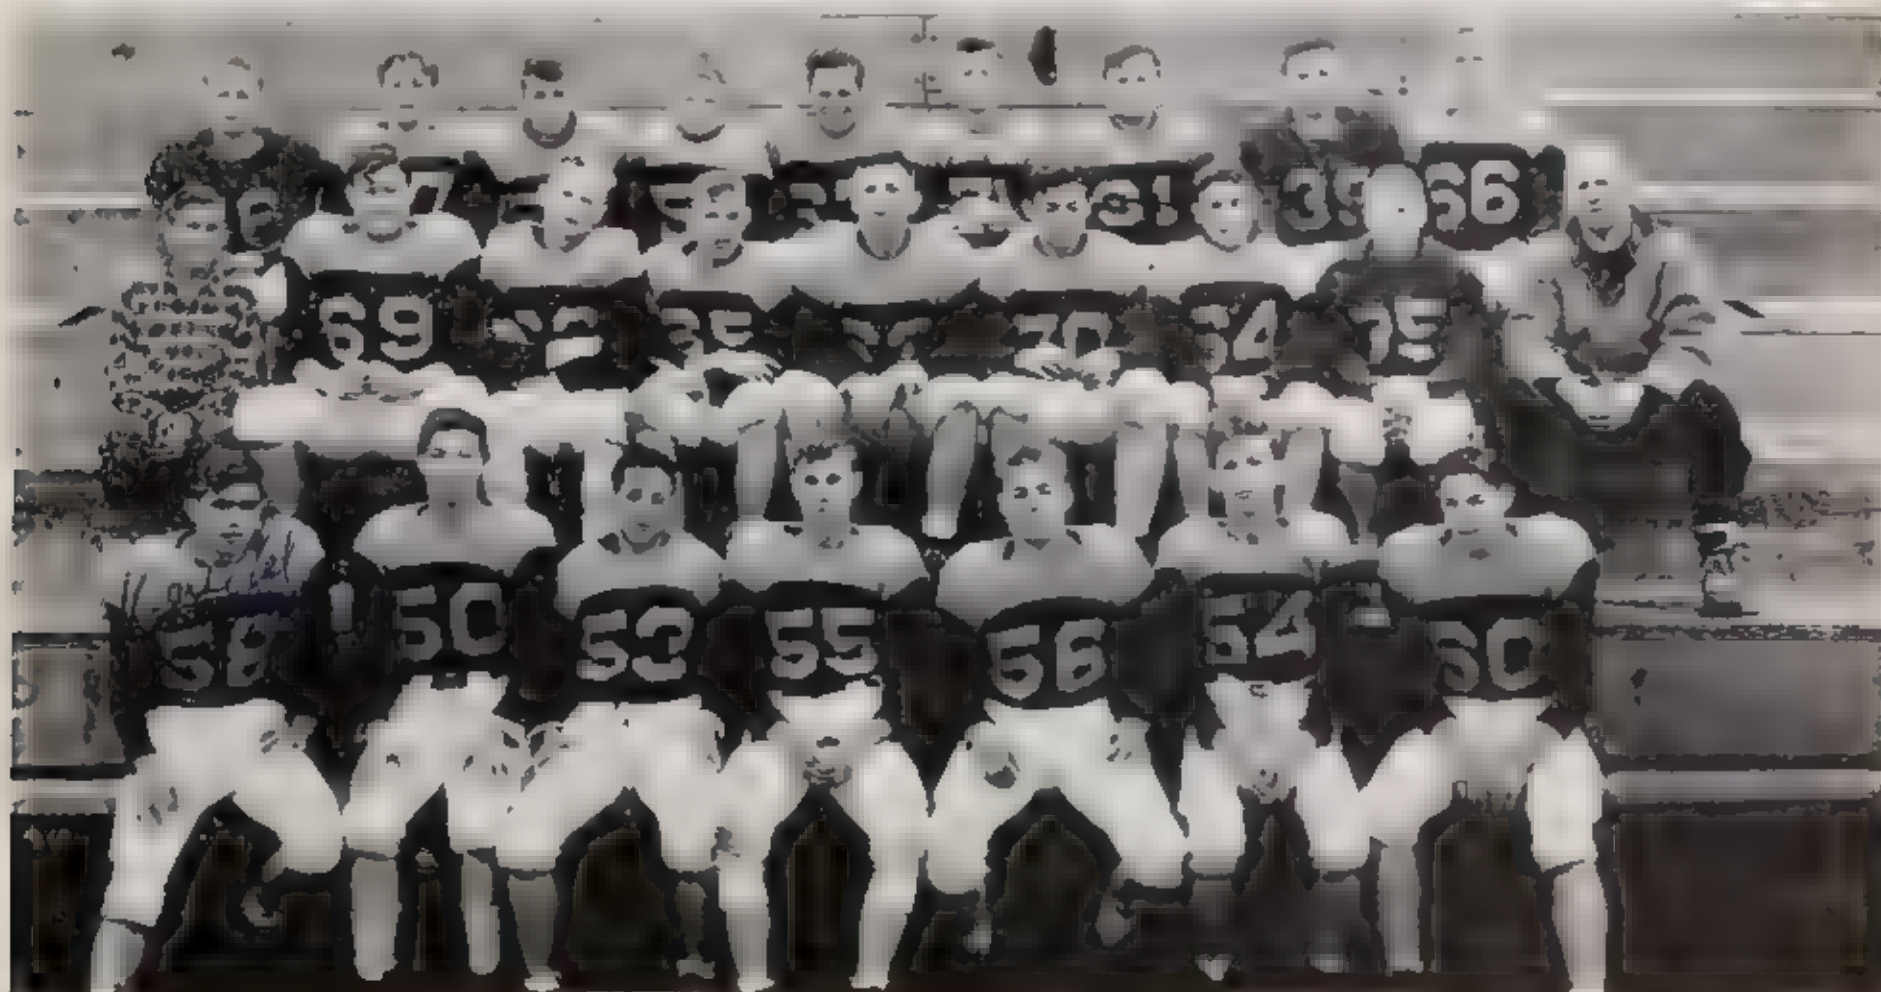

Karl Von Keller, Jimmy Fawbank, Junior Diehm, and Jimmy Cobb will all be back next year to assist Bill Fox in the backfield.

Where would a team be without managers? Bill Downing and J. L. Parks held these rough positions for the Tigers.

Everybody remembers those ten thrill-packed games in which one of the best teams in Norman's history romped to victory after victory through a tough schedule.

On The Maplewood Trail

Laying aside football cleats and helmets, the scrapping Tigers from Norman immediately put on the lighter and less cumbersome accoutrements that accompany the less rugged sport of basketball.

Starting slow, the Norman team took a hard-fought decision from the Putnam City Pirates on the Pirates' own maples 31 to 20 and downed a hard fighting Duncan team by the solid score of 32 to 22. The team seemed to catch their second wind, and after successive wins over such teams as Northeast, Ardmore, and Chickasha the Tigers bounded into league play, meeting the Shawnee Wolves on the home court to throw open the doors to a very successful season. Running the victory string to eighteen in a row without a set-back, the team prepared to meet a strong Classen team, which later proved to be the state champs, for a crucial Mid-State Conference tilt. The inevitable was bound to happen, and so it did with the Tigers coming out on the small end of a 31 to 30 thriller with Comet Pete Darcey sinking a free throw with 5 seconds remaining, icing the game for the blue and gold. The Capitol Hill Redskins also tied a knot in the Tigers' tail to the tune of 41 to 42 in an overtime thriller, thus throwing the title of Mid-State into a two-way tie between Norman and Classen.

The Tigers closed one of the most successful seasons in years with the Chickasha Chicks taking home the bacon in a rough and tough tilt that launched the Tigers into the Regional Tournament at Shawnee. Entering the semi-finals by a first round bye, the team met Cushing and soundly trounced them to gain access to the finals against Shawnee. Norman made possibly its best showing of the year trapping the Wolves and gaining a chance at the State play-offs in Oklahoma City.

The Bengals drew the Pawhuska Huskies for the first round play and sent them back to their lairs minus a few teeth and claws. The next night they met a strong Tulsa Central team that had shown great skill previously in defeating Enid. The Tigers met their match in a Tulsa team that put on an exhibition that melted the snow surrounding the Auditorium. Norman bowed out to the tune of 47 to 40.

The season thus ended, we pay tribute to a team that has played hard and carried the Orange and Black proudly and fought hard in its defense. Therefore all we can say to you is "Thanks."

Our coach, Doc LaFavers, has been chosen to coach the South basketball team next August in the North-South game.

The loss of the starting five of the team will come as a blow for those who expect a great team in the year to come. From twelve lettermen, six are lost by graduation. Among these are: Roy Hamilton, high scorer and all-state guard; Jack Lockett, guard on state-tournament team; J. N. Johnson, hustling, dependable forward; Charles Coleman, all mid-state center; Sam Wilson, hard-to-beat basketeer; and winding up the procession is Walter Rathliff, the ever-popular substitute.

Six substitutes return for another year: juniors John Widlake, James Argo, Bill Fox, Charles Stowe, and Jim Ewbank, together with sophomore Jim Bumgarner help to keep Norman's pennant hopes alive. Any team that can beat the record established this year 23-4 should be a team to watch. So look out, records, here we come.

Minor Sports

In the last few years at Norman High minor sports have become more important and new ones have been introduced.

Track, coached by Harley "Doc" LaFevers, has become so popular that thirty boys are now reporting, and a junior high team is being started. Last year Norman placed nine men in the state finals and came in third in the state meet, where formerly only a limited number of boys qualified. Among the returning lettermen are Charles Coleman, Roy Hamilton, Jack Lockett, Jerry Lemon, Walter Ratliff and Junior Diehm, along with "Rusty" Brett and Jeroald Andrews, who placed consistently while in junior high.

Arlo "Skivey" Davis is again coaching the baseball team and is expected to have a good year since almost all the boys played American Legion ball last summer. Jay Walton, a sophomore, was considered one of the best Legion pitchers in the state. Also, over half of last year's lettermen are returning. They are J. B. Dufran, J. N. Johnson, Sam Wilson, Jim Ewhank, Harlan McKenzie, Joe Lam, Lloyd Garner, Charles Haney, Bobby Barnard, Aubrey Davis and Jack McDermott.

This year Howard Brighton introduced swimming to Norman High. The team is made up mostly of sophomores and freshmen with Dave Glander and Johnny Keith placing in last year's Junior AAU meet.

Tentatively planned is a tennis team with many good players awaiting the decision of the school.

We are sure Norman High School will continue doing as well in minor sports as in major sports.

Our Trail

The old Western song "Little Joe the Wrangler" could have been a fitting pseudonym for each member of the TRAIL staff at one time or another this year. Every one was a strong individualist, and no idea advanced by any other staff member could equal his own. But after much wrangling and compromise, the theme of our book was decided upon.

We liked the theme of advancement over a trail because we found it a fitting simile for our progress through school and life, and it exemplified the section of the country in which we live.

Since nearly half the staff were carry-overs from last year, we who were new to yearbook activities were ably guided by their experience.

The responsibilities and problems of producing an annual fell largely on the shoulders of Charlotte Gibson, editor.

photographer; Jimmy Ewbank, junior sports editor; Golda Rice and Joyce Cox, artists, and Larry Flood, junior high editor.

The process of putting together a yearbook was completely foreign to the newcomers, and for the first two weeks, every time Miss Searcy called for the "dummy," we all looked guiltily at one another, wondering who was today's victim. Inside of a month, however, we learned, much to our relief, that the device called the "dummy" was neither staff member nor sponsor, but a blueprint of the completed TRAIL.

To our knowledge were added the facts that "layouts" are designs for pages, spreads are not related to cheese, but are two facing pages, and cut copy has nothing to do with scissors, but is picture identification; that "Miss Mortise" in Jerry Lemon's layout was not a new faculty member, but a space blanked out of a cut; that bleeding is not a penalty levied against staff members who fail to meet their deadlines, but means extending a picture to the edge of a page.

Our sponsors were Miss Lucile Searcy who supervised the literary and photographic angles, and Mrs. Davis who struggled with the finances, sales campaign, and concessions.

The 1947-48 TRAIL staff has worked hard to produce this TRAIL. We hope it is a representative book, and one that will meet with the approval and satisfaction of the entire student body. We want you to enjoy it now, and in future years, when you look back through it, to renew your high school memories and make them vivid realities once again.

Volume XXV, Number 2

The Norman TIGER went into its third year of publication, after a wartime lay-off, as a semi-monthly mimeographed, eight-page paper. All work was done by students without credits, and much of it after school hours.

The 1947-48 staff, selected from the outstanding upperclassmen, included Marianne Isom, editor; Ann Gibson, assistant editor; James Billingsley, junior high editor; Bill Watson and Franklin Hunt, sports writers; James Kellerhals, business manager; R. L. Bryson, assistant business manager; Jerry Lemon, cartoonist; Harriett Rutledge, Ann Petty, and Dick Patten, reporters; Sue Ellison and Patsy Hallock, typists; Miss Jean Sugden, sponsor.

Publication for the year ended with an excellent printed paper for the annual Christmas Special, bearing the traditional front-page spread of "Merry Christmas" in eight languages.

The day the TIGER came out was always a gay one. We hope it will reappear next year.

GINGERSNAPS

To anyone who knows them the Gingersnaps are the peppiest, spiciest, most versatile, and most active all-around club a high school ever had. To the spectators of the games, the Gingersnaps were the backbone of the cheering section, but to the graduating Gingersnaps themselves the club meant something more, something better. To them it was the last opportunity to be really part of a Norman High School football game.

Three of the most interesting events for the Gingersnaps this year were the three trips to out-of-town football games. On returning, two of these excursions met with sad fates, and the girls failed to see Norman till dawn of the following day. Many many old jokes, some good, some bad, were recalled to mind those weary nights. But despite these mishaps the only sad faces during the vigil were those of the girls who had to work the next day.

Under the leadership of Mrs. McDermott and the presidency of Nancy Matlock the club experienced their best season yet.

In November the Gingersnaps staged a tremendously successful informal dance at the Union Ball Room. Everyone was there with bells on, dancing under beautiful, low-hanging bright balloons which gave the final, decorative touch to a wonderful evening.

In December they surged back into action during basketball season. Often more than twice a week the orange and black uniforms appeared and the Gingersnaps never let down. They were there every time cheering each member of the squad to victory after victory.

And so we have touched just a few of the events that the 1947-48 Gingersnaps will remember forever, events that are now just vivid memories in a trail of a truly great club.

Mr. Robinson, Band Director

The Band On The Musical Trail

Under the able direction of Mr. William C. Robinson the Norman High School Band began the school year with enthusiasm.

During football season its members were present at every home game. In the bright lights of Owen Field their snappy uniforms of orange and black made a vivid picture in contrast to the green of the field.

Able Drum Majorette Jeannene Wampler and the strutting twirlers were all that was necessary for a perfect marching season.

Preceding the gaily colored floats down Main Street, the band helped to make this year's Homecoming one of the most memorable and colorful on record. On Band Day competition with a number of other state bands ended with a friendly invitation to an exciting O. U. football game.

In December Mr. Robinson delivered a car full of outstanding musicians to the Stillwater Band Clinic, where all who attended gained useful experience. At the all-state orchestra clinic meet in Norman, under the direction of Victor Alessandro, all of the NHS participants were truly inspired.

With its WNAD broadcasts and other activities the band was kept stepping until the February concert. With Mr. J. D. Rambo as president the Parents' Organization proved itself as beneficial as that of last year.

All members of the band were proud of their officers—Jerry Adams, president; Jack McDermott, vice-president; Joanne Darow, secretary; Betty Lou Rambo, treasurer; and James Billingsley, reporter—and their pretty queen, Tollie Dickenson, who was crowned in the annual coronation concert.

The twenty seniors graduating this year will truly miss the band's enthusiasm and good times. We of Norman High have reason to be proud of this year's Norman High School Band.

THE TRAIL OF THE FUTURE

The group who wear the name "Future Homemakers" play a very active part in Norman High School under the guidance of their energetic, efficient leader, Mrs. Inez Rolette.

The Norman chapter consists of twenty-two girls ranging from sophomores to seniors. Each girl is enrolled in home economics.

In November Ann Gibson became president when LaVerne Gill moved to Washington

State.

Delegates from the Norman chapter attend many conventions and conferences in the surrounding towns of Chickasha, Purcell, and Oklahoma City.

Each month the organization has a social, and it has entertained the FFA and had a Christmas and Halloween party. All of these social activities enliven the serious preparation for future home making. —Barbara Fisher

Scientific Farmers

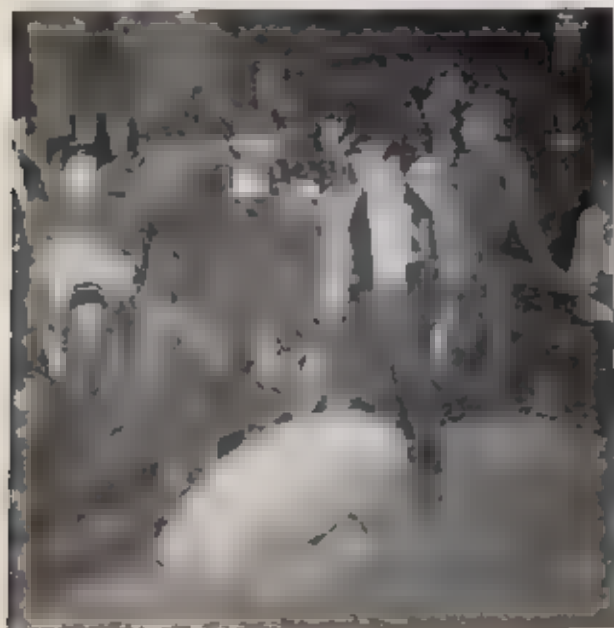

Mr. E. F. Foreman

Mr. E. F. Foreman has been teacher of vocational agriculture in Norman High School for the past twelve years. He helped to organize this chapter of Future Farmers of America, and since that time he has taught over seven hundred and fifty boys. Under his influence and guidance these boys have made this chapter a two-time receiver of the gold emblem for being one of the best chapters in the United States. He has produced more than forty state champion judging teams as well as many individual champions. He has been and still is a great benefit to this community. His personality and ability as a leader have made every FFA boy feel extremely proud to have him for a teacher and friend.

The Norman Future Farmers have had a busy year though not so successful as many years. They rated second in contest participation among two hundred Oklahoma chapters, a comparatively good score. Their poultry team, composed of Joe Murphy, M. I. Neher, and Clonnie Davis, placed third at four consecutive contests. The dairy team, represented by Hansmeyer, Doyle Green, Bobby Champeau, Joe Murphy, and Clonnie Davis, placed first at Ardmore. A terracing team, Dwayne Butler and Charles Conkling, placed first at Tulsa. As the year passed, a new contest was instituted, the Soil Conservation Contest at Guthrie. The Norman boys determined to win this contest and did with Joe Murphy and Clonnie Davis placing second and third respectively. The other member of the team, Alvie Musgrave, placed ninth.

In the show arena Norman has had a better than average year. Jim Cobb exhibited the grand champion trio of White Plymouth Rock chickens at the Oklahoma Poultry Show in Oklahoma City.

Joan Johnson was selected as FFA Queen and was crowned at the annual parent-and-son banquet.

Officers chosen to preside over the chapter activities included Clonnie Davis, president; Joe Murphy, vice-president; M. I. Neher, secretary; Doyle Green, treasurer; Billy Hansmeyer, reporter; and Lloyd Garner, sentinel.

NORMAN - 37

TULSA - 14

Yes, with that sensational 37-14 victory over Tulsa Will Rogers, before a crowd of 6,000 fans at Owen Stadium, we at Norman High, tired but thoroughly happy and contented, closed another wonderful Homecoming Day.

Homecoming was proclaimed by Mr. Fwbank in the Norman Tiger, Thursday, November 9; and the events began early Friday morning, at eight o'clock, to be exact, with a rehearsal by Joanna Andreskowski, Football Queen, her attendants and escorts, and the band and Gingersnaps for the ceremonies to be presented at the half-time of the game that night.

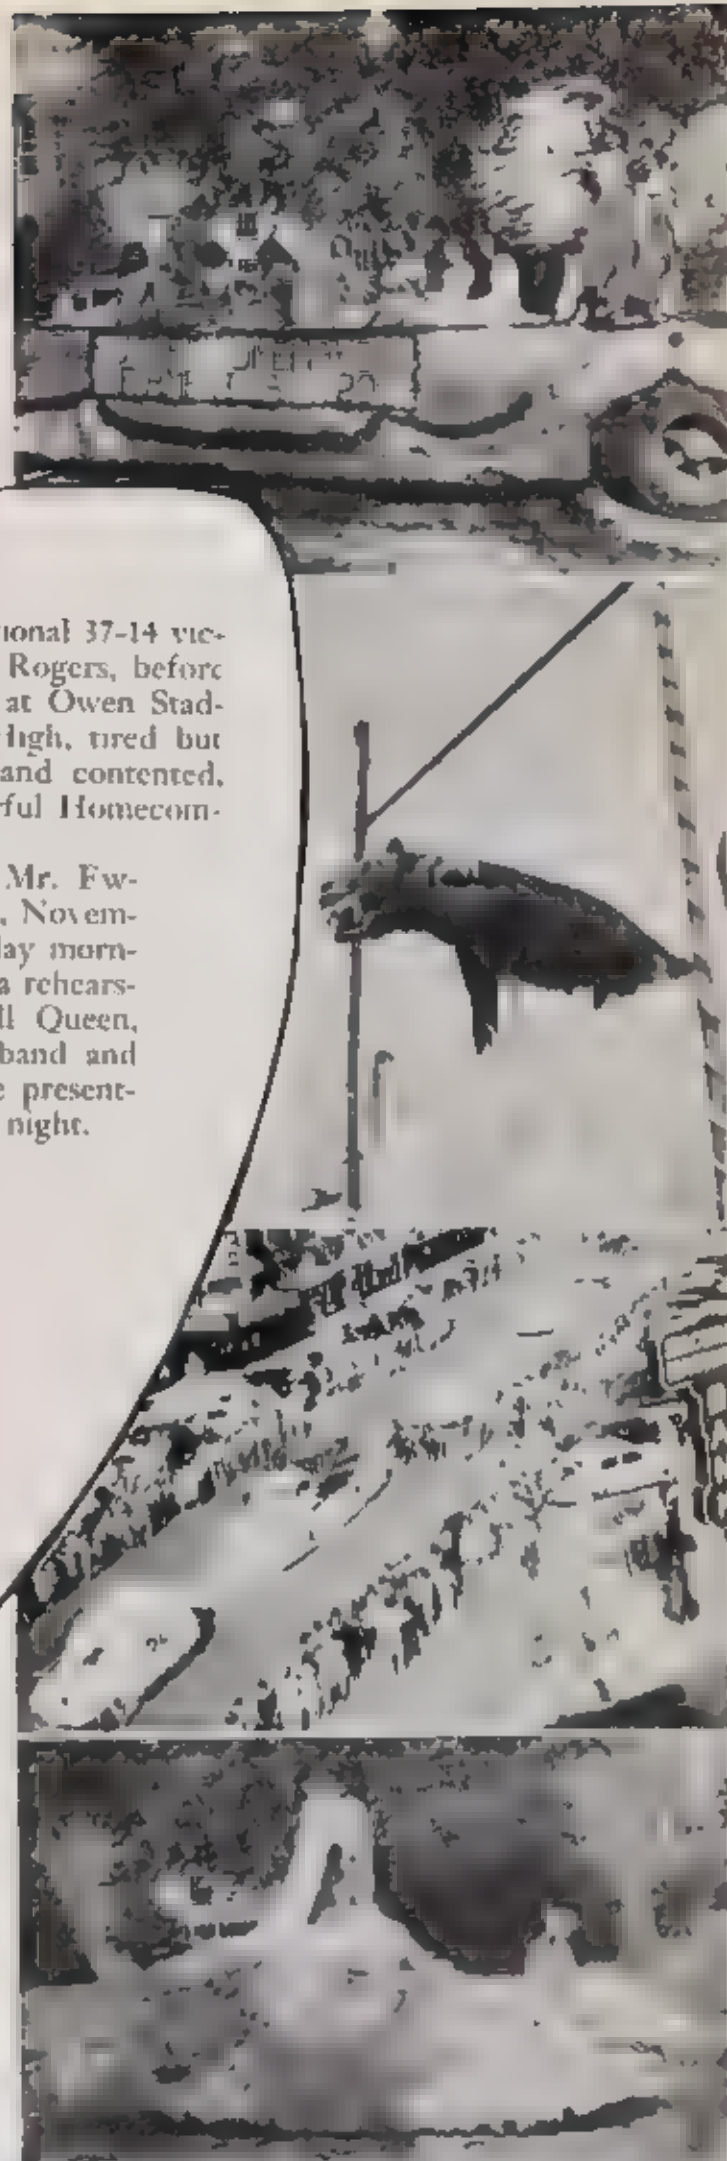

Next came the Homecoming assembly. Jerry Lemon presided as master of ceremonies. He introduced first the queen's attendants and escorts, and then Joanna Andreskowski, who received the royal crown from Jack Lockett, captain for the Homecoming game. Features of the program, dedicated to the queen, included a vocal solo by Mary Alexander, and an Al Jolson imitation by Jack Bumgarner, an NHS alumnus. Buddy Smith, former letterman, introduced the large group of alumni.

At half-time intermission of the game, the band and Gingersnaps marched to the center of the field to welcome the Homecoming crowd.

Mrs. MacDerriott and the Gingersnaps deserve high praise for their wonderful Homecoming program.

FAREWELL

Think only of the past as its remembrance gives you pleasure.

—JANE AUSTEN, Pride and Prejudice

To My Good Friend O.R.
Whitaker, who has made my 1st hour Geometry class a pleasure! I'll see you next year, I hope! Love

Claude C.

Dick
I have had a wonderful year being with you May be (I hope so) we will go someplace
(somewhere) together this summer. I wish you the best of luck in your future years and hope school won't be too hard Paul Keen

seen him as ever, you Rick. Good luck in the future years.
 wayne

Lots of luck always,
 Barbara
 Mayhew

Did you learned me all the tricks at Steve

Best of luck to a much appreciated
 friend Gary. (Herman)
 He would do it for me
 without you.
 Helen Duller

So a swell thing, who'd it has been a pleasure
 knowing. Lots of luck

Hi you, for all Good luck!
 I will mail you a postcard

Dear O.R.
 I think you're quite an adventurer
 (going to Shawnee)
 I mean! (luck)
 Pat & Helen

He There O.R.
 you're loads of fun - a real nut but a swell
 guy - had fun
 in Spanish with Barbara you - take it easy
 This summer
 will see you
 next year.
 Dey Ellis David

Best of luck to a swell boy, in football in the years of 1948-49-50
 Norm Smith

Hard Luck!
 I have enjoyed having G. Smith with you this year. Maybe will have more next year. L.P. at 1-1-1
 May 4-11

Dear O.R.
 Wish you best of luck in football

 To a lover of
 Mrs. Ruffyan.
 Dave Gland

Dear O.R.
 I enjoyed being in Hasting class with you
 Hope of luck son!
 Bill Jensen

Lots of luck for now and the future.
 Barbara Bunde

I hope you are having water
